

The National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS) Summary Report indicates that you are in default on federal educational loan(s) that you previously received as a student. You can confirm this by going to the NSLDS website at www.nsls.ed.gov. You will need to use your FSA ID# to enter this website.

If you don't have an FSA ID#, please visit www.fsa.ed.gov.

The status of default occurs when borrowers fail to make the required payments according to the terms of their promissory note for a federal educational loan(s).

Please also check your Student Aid Report (SAR) that was emailed to you after you completed your FAFSA. There will be a comment on that report that will indicate what agency you need to contact.

IMPORTANT: If you are in default, you are NOT eligible for federal, state, or institutional financial aid until you provide documentation from your Lender that your default status has been cleared.

Please provide a CURRENT letter from either the specific Federal Lender through which you received your student loan or from the school where you received these specific loan funds (for Perkins or NDSL loans).

If you believe this information to be in error, please provide our office with documentation that indicates you are not in a delinquent or defaulted status.

If you have questions regarding this document or the required letter from your Federal Loan Servicer, please contact Student Financial Services at the number listed below for details and information.
